

A Pageant of Sport Costumes

From times of Diana and Queen Elizabeth, when women played at sports in dresses more conventional than practical, we have come by gradual stages to the present day, when women choose their sport costumes for appropriateness as well as smartness.

Thus, today, woman's sport costumes are as varied as her athletic activities, and they include every detail from hats and wraps to sheer blouses and smartly fashioned shoes.

The Sport Hat

AIMS to be both comfortable and charming, and invariably it succeeds. Hats of straw and wool woven together, leather hats with metal eyelets, and straw hats of comfortable proportions feature in our Sport Hat display. Each one is lifted above the merely ordinary by some distinctive touch in fabric or design.

In all the sport colors.

$8.50 to $32.50

Second Floor, 34th St., Front.

Women's Knitted Dresses

THESE frocks of knitted wool have been created in response to the sports-woman's demand for comfortable smartness. For spring sports, golf and hiking, they fulfill every expectation.

There are vivid and subdued color effects and fibre is used here and there for decoration. Sailor collars—the latest whim of Paris—feature prominently, and there are both long and short sleeves. One model displays a checked design in fibre and wool. In all the sport shades.

$48.75 to $124.00

Third Floor, 34th St., Rear.

Sport Skirts

FLARE mildly, but noticeably. White is much in vogue, with silks woven in intricate geometric patterns playing the role of favorite. Now and again wool comes to the fore as in a model of white gabardine. Yellow soutache braid is applied to it, in two inch squares, to give the appearance of woven checks.

$21.74

Third Floor, Centre.

Sweaters

A 1921 sport sweater may have a Tuxedo collar, or it may not. Belted it must be, and very often a fancy weave is effectively used as trimming.

Just to be different, a gray crocheted model of fibre silk has no collar at all, and is trimmed with red and green carved wooden beads.

There are other crocheted models in Russian blouse effects with real Angora collars.

$8.94 to $74.50

Sweater Dept., Third Floor, 34th St., Front.

Misses' Sport Suits

FOR warmth and wear, a knitted costume, sponsored by Paris, appears a prime favorite with devotees of courts and links. One particularly vivid conception from abroad displays a swagger cape of orange interwoven with silver checks.

Cut with closely fitting diagonally buttoned vest it daintily mocks its masculine prototype. The orange skirt is banded at the bottom with the woven silver check.

$89.75

Third Floor, 35th St., Front.

Newest Sport Blouses

THERE are crisp dainties—very simple and well tailored—with Peter Pan or straight collars, and short or long sleeves.

$3.74 to $9.74

French blouses of sheer batiste and voile display dainty ruffles, handwork and real lace. In all the charming sport shades and white.

$7.74 to $24.74 (Tax 9c)

Silk Sport Blouses feature crepe fabrics with printed designs, hand embroidery and contrasting color effects.

$14.74 to $24.74 (Tax 9c)

Third Floor, 34th St.

Sport Wraps

PARIS advocates the knitted wrap for sport and, lest it grow monotonous, she fashions it in a variety of styles. There are capes, wraps, and coats of knitted wool, Angora, alpaca and fibre. Stripes of contrasting colors, metal threads and fringes feature as trimmings.

In sport shades, navy, black and white.

$18.74 to $59.75

Third Floor, Front.

Shoes

DIANA'S sandals, bound to her feet by thongs, served but one purpose—to protect. Miss 1921's footwear, comfortably fitted, serves to protect and adorn. And who shall say our modern miss is not more handsomely served?

The vogue of the strap pump continues. It appears now in a graceful one-strap pump of white canvas with leather trimmings. In tan or black, $7.44. Others up to $13.18. May be had in red, green, blue, tan and black leather trimming.

$7.44 to $12.89 (Tax 2c)

Second Floor, Rear, 35th St.

Diana with bow in hand, went clad in homespun flax.

Atalanta ran the famous race in soft draperies of some unknown ancient fabric.

The Mediaeval Maiden rode her palfrey bedecked in robes of velvet.

The Colonial Dame wore heavy satins when she played at battledore and shuttlecock.

Queen Elizabeth went hawking in brocades and fine laces.

In Civil War Days girls played croquet clothed in flowered taffetas "stiff enough to stand alone."

Miss 1899 went cycling in a cloth suit with sleeves and waistline accentuated.

Miss 1921 has gathered all the stately fabrics of her sisters of old—combined and modified them—and at riding, golfing, hunting and tennis she uses them with charming effect.

R. H. Macy & Co.
Herald Square Inc. New York